GATOR-ROPING IS NO EASY TASK, as, from left, Patrick Toomey of the Mississippi Wildlife Conservation Service, Arthur Stockstill and Wilford Moran of the Mississippi Highway Department and Hancock County Deputy Sheriff Nathan Hoda will attest. This 12-foot, 600-pound alligator was captured by Hancock County Game Warden Ronnie Ferrell from a canal beside I-10 just east of the Diamondhead exit Wednesday afternoon. The capture, Ferrell said, took about an hour and a half. Toomey said the alligator, which he estimated is 10 or 11 years old, had been shot three times in the stomach and once in the back of the neck with "what looks like a high-powered rifle." After he was caught and tied, with a cloth put over his eyes "so he would think he was covered up and hidden," the alligator was picked up with a lift and loaded onto a truck. After he has been observed to make sure he is all right, he will be taken back and released in a more natural habitat, Toomey said. (Staff photo by Nan Patton Ehrbright)

Supervisors balk at paying ADI extra engineering fees

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Saying "We've got to have a showdown with (Mike) Smith," Hancock County Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner introduced a motion Wednesday which his colleagues approved calling for the board attorney and the Port and Harbor Commission attorney to review the commission's contract with Advanced Developments Inc.

The action came after Commission Executive Director James C. DeBlanc asked the board to approve payments to ADI for engineering work on apron expansion and taxiway reconstruction at Stennis International Airport.

The disputed bills are for engineering work on projects that are on "over-run time."

"Can you say these are unjust charges?" DeBlanc asked.

"I can't say they're unjust. I can say they're not fair, I think," Ladner responded.

DeBlanc said he was unable to say how much more over-run time will be necessary to complete the projects but said there is about 30 percent more work to do on the apron job in "side" work.

"You're losing all your liquidated damages to the engineer," Supervisor Bert Courge said.

"If we approve payment today, that's roughly $10,000 in extra engineering fees and the job's still not finished."

"He's already got us for over $20,000 in overruns on other jobs out there."

"If the job runs another one-third, we'll be paying about $47,000 on a $250,000 project."

After further discussion Supervisor Sam Perniciaro moved to approve payment and Ladner seconded, but the motion was defeated when Supervisors Courge, James Travirca and A.A. Kellar voted nay.

Subsequently, after the supervisors took the two dockets under advisement, Ladner moved for review of ADI's contract.

In another matter the supervisors agreed to increase funding from $100 to $200 per month effective Oct. 1 for operation and maintenance of the Hancock County Animal Shelter.

Shelter officials reported the electric bill one month last winter was $279.

Records show the shelter has handled 3,079 animals for the fiscal year through June, they said.

Kellar urged the increase, saying it is his understanding the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland have also agreed to contribute $200 per month.

Also Wednesday, Kellar and Ladner requested that $10,000 from each of their revenue sharing funds be turned over to the City of Waveland, with a sufficient amount—about $5,000, Ladner said— earmarked to provide a total five percent match for railroad traffic signals at Waveland and Nicholson Avenues and the remainder of the $20,000 for road construction.

Kellar said Waveland officials plan to expend over $100,000 to blacktop numerous city roads.

Judge postpones decision on picketing injunction

By DENA BISNETTE
A Chancery Court judge Wednesday took under advisement the question of whether New Woman Clinic in Bay St. Louis is entitled to an injunction to stop picketing in front of its building on US-90.

At the end of a Gulfport hearing, Chancery Judge Jason Floyd said he also would take under advisement requests for dismissal of the complaint made by the defendants Wednesday, and issue a decision later.

The original complaint was filed Aug. 8 by Beacon Light Clinic, Inc., an Alabama firm which operates New Woman Clinic and a similar facility in Jackson.

Defendants include Rev. Nathan L. Barber, pastor of First Baptist Church; Rev. Ernest Culley, pastor of Word of Faith Christian Fellowship; Rev. Charles Hand, pastor of Church of God, Bay St. Louis; Rev. Charles Clark, pastor of First Assembly of God, Waveland; Fr. Henry McInerney of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, Bay St. Louis; and Bob Hubbard, grand knight of the local Knights of Columbus and a Waveland alderman.

The complaint alleges that the defendants organized the picketing, which intimidates patients and prospective patients of the clinic and therefore "interferes with the business of the clinic."

Testimony was heard from Clinic Director Martha Fuqua and Clinic Administrator Vicki Raley, who were represented by Gulfport attorney Garnett Harrison; and defendants Culley and Barber.

Both of the clinic personnel testified that some of the defendants participated in a mass protest in front of the clinic on July 28, where about 75 people staged a memorial service for aborted children.

World's Fair to salute Hancock

Hancock County will be featured Monday at the New Orleans World's Fair.

The "Salute to Hancock County" day will be held in the Mississippi Pavilion on the World's Fair site, and will include a 20-minute opening ceremony.

Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland elected officials, along with local organizations and celebrities will participate.

Local craftsmen to be demonstrating their talents include Lucille Luke and Ellsworth R. Collins.

Mrs. Luke, a member of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Craftsmen's Guild, makes baskets and other items from pine needles, which are very indigenous to the area.

She has received a first place ribbon at the Pass Christian Seafood Festival, and was named Artist of the Week in July by Barbara Salloom of Good Morning, South Mississippi on WLOX-TV. All of Mrs. Luke's work is original.

Ellsworth R. Collins, a lifetime resident of Bay St. Louis, is an antique furniture restorer and woodcarver. His art has been displayed at local businesses, as well as Hancock General Hospital, The City-County Library and St. Rose de Lima School.

He will be displaying his handmade woodcarved circus and other woodworks at the Mississippi Pavilion.

Local performers for the day will include the Country Sounds Band, the Hancock North Central Band, the Acker Inspirational Ensemble and Pic-

Board member registers sour note on Bay High gymnasium band clinic

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Superintendent J.D. McCullough said Wednesday the majority of the district's trustees have indicated they are in favor of an on-campus band clinic.

The clinic is scheduled to be held Monday, Aug. 20, McCullough said, and the trustees are expected to give official approval to the program at a 2 p.m. board meeting that afternoon.

At the board's meeting on Monday, Aug. 13, some board members were reluctant to approve the program, particularly Trustee Margo Frommeyer who expressed concern about the students staying all night on campus, sleeping in the gymnasium in sleeping bags.

The program, McCullough said, would involve only district students in junior high and high school, "mostly tenth grade down."

Parents had already authorized students to attend, he said.

Students who wish to return home at night will be allowed to do so, he said.

McCullough assured the trustees students would be well chaperoned by both faculty members and parents, and said law enforcement officials will police the school grounds evenings during the clinic.

The cafeteria, he said, will be open to provide meals to the students.

"I think they would be better off here than going off to a camp somewhere," McCullough told the trustees. "That's pretty much a trend now—having these clinics on campus."

"I don't like it," Frommeyer said at Monday's meeting.

"I like the clinic. I don't like the idea of them sleeping here with lack of sleeping facilities."

McCullough told the trustees Monday

Property seized in drug raid to be auctioned

By DENA BISNETTE
Last month, Circuit Judge J. Ruble Griffin approved a request by District Attorney Cono Caranna and ruled that property seized in an April 17 drug raid should be turned over to the county. On Sept. 5, some of those items will be sold at public auction.

According to Sheriff Ronald Peterson, the items to be auctioned off include a 1913 $20 gold piece, a set of gold wedding bands, a sapphire ring, an engagement ring, a gold chain and a 1977 Chevrolet pickup truck.

The sale will be conducted at 11 a.m. at the courthouse and all items will be sold for cash. Peterson said the money from the auction will be placed in the county's general fund, which is under the control of the board of supervisors. A car also seized in the raid will not be sold, Peterson said. It is being kept by the sheriff's department and will be used by the jailer to transport prisoners.

The items to be sold were seized along with about $226,027 and more than 5,000 pounds of marijuana when a Pearlman residence was raided.

Arrested as a result of that raid and charged with possession with intent to deliver 5,010 pounds of marijuana were Jeffery Dennis Kerr, 32, of 41 Riverdale Drive in Pearlman; his 18-year-old son Peter Kerr; Hugh Turner, 35, of San Rafael, Calif.; and the late Winlaw Byrns, 40, of Waveland, S.C.

News Briefs

Jail Committee

The Hancock County Jail Committee has slated a special meeting for 10 a.m. Saturday in the supervisors boardroom of the county courthouse to discuss the feasibility of adding courthouse additions to the forthcoming bond issue proposal to build a new county jail, according to Terrence Feeney, committee chairman.

With Winter Campaign

Mrs. William Winter, wife of former governor and U.S. Senate candidate William Winter, and their daughter Eleanor Winter who is on leave from the staff of U.S. Senator John C. Stennis to work with her father's campaign will tour Hancock County Thursday.

Supporters are invited to join the pair for coffee at Scaffidi's Wheel Inn on US-90 in Bay St. Louis at 10 a.m.

They are scheduled to be at the Pearlman Post Office at 11 a.m., followed by a visit to the Hancock County Senior Citizens Center in Bay St. Louis and lunch at the Landmark Restaurant on Main Street.

Their itinerary includes the Bay St. Louis and Waveland City Halls in the afternoon, according to Margaret Taylor, wife of State Senator Gene Taylor, who is serving as hostess to the visitors.

Bodybuilding Championships

Three competitors in the Mr. and Ms. Southern States Body Building Championships at the Saenger Theater in Biloxi Saturday are Hancock County residents, as well as two judges in the event.

Judging a preliminary event at 10 a.m. as well as an evening competition which begins at 8 p.m. will be Brother Bennett, weightlifting coach at St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis, and Linda Emmel, Diamondhead resident, Hancock North Central High School physical education teacher and bodybuilding titleholder.

Competitors will include Arley Vest of Bay St. Louis who recently captured the over-40 title in Southern USA Bodybuilding Championships in Baton Rouge, La.; Hansel Baxter of Bay St. Louis who holds bodybuilding titles from events in Biloxi, Greenville and New Orleans; and Charles Hawkins of Waveland who captured four titles in the 1984 Mr. and Ms. Gulf Coast Bodybuilding Championships in Biloxi in June.

Saturday's event is a Ron Meyers production. WLOX-TV Sports Director A. J. Giardina will serve as master of ceremonies.

General election ballot to include election commission, school board

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

All five seats on the Hancock County Election Commission and the District 5 seat on the Hancock County School Board will be filled at the November general election.

Charles F. Gottschalk, secretary of the Hancock County Election Commission, said the deadline to qualify as a candidate for any of these offices is 5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 7.

Candidates for any of these offices must file a petition, signed by at least 50 qualified electors (voters) who reside in the candidate's beat of residence, requesting that the candidate's name be placed on the ballot.

Persons signing petitions in the school board race must reside in that portion of District 5 outside the Bay-Waveland Municipal Separate School District.

Each candidate must declare in writing his or her party affiliation—Democratic, Republican or Independent—which shall be included on the ballot.

Gottschalk said petitions for election commission candidates must be filed with Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaise, secretary of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Petitions for the school board election shall be filed with the election commission in the circuit clerk's office.

According to Gottschalk, the candidate earning the greatest number of votes in the school board election will win even if he or she does not receive a majority of the votes.

In the election commission races, if one candidate does not receive a majority of the votes there will be a run-off election two weeks after the general election between the two top vote-getters.

Incumbents on the election commission are Jacob V. Ladner, District 1; Francis L. Lee, District 2; John V.

Ladner, District 3; Jerry Seuzeneau, District 4; and Gottschalk, District 5.

Johnny Banks is the incumbent school board member for District 5.

Incumbent election commissioners Lee, Gottschalk, Seuzeneau and Jacob V. Ladner said they have not yet decided whether to stand for re-election although Seuzeneau said he is "leaning toward not running."

Commissioner John V. Ladner said he will stand for re-election.

"I think we've come a long way in four years," he said.

Banks said he has not yet made up his mind whether to run again for the school board.

Election commissioners, who are elected for four-year terms, are responsible for conducting all general and special elections.

Their duties include purchasing supplies for holding elections, having ballots printed and distributed, employing poll workers, physically checking voting machines and ballot boxes to ensure they are in proper working order and purging the poll books to remove names of persons who have died, moved or been convicted of certain crimes.

After the election the commissioners check the number of votes cast in each box with a tally sheet furnished by each precinct manager.

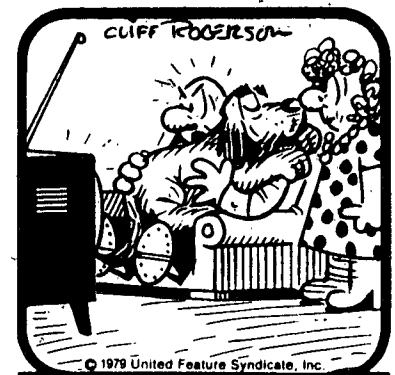

If everything is in order, the commissioners accept the count and certify the results to the secretary of state for his final certification of the total vote.

If there are discrepancies, protests or questions, the commissioners conduct a recount.

The election commission also hears grievance appeals by people who claim to have been denied the right to register to vote.

For meetings required by law, commissioners are paid $40 per day for each day in session, with a limitation of 20 days per year unless extra days are Injunction.....

Both testified that the other defendants have participated in picketing since the service, or that their names were obtained from picketers.

However, they also said they had not seen any of the defendants together since the July 28 incident.

The clinic director, who is based at the Jackson facility but visits the Bay St. Louis clinic three to four times per week, said she was present at the time of the memorial service and has seen picketers on all of her subsequent visits.

Although she said she has heard no threats against patients, she said she is concerned about what the picketers might do to them. "I have patients call me every day and say, 'What will those people do' or 'Will they hurt me' and I don't know," Ms. Fuqua said.

She also stated that she felt the displaying of signs with pro-life slogans in front of patients and prospective patients was "abusive."

Other complaints voiced by the two included noise, including singing, chanting and laughter that could be heard inside the clinic; and picketers holding social gatherings with lawn chairs, umbrellas and ice chests on the highway easement in front of the building.

In addition, Harrison also called Barber and Culley.

Culley testified that the clergymen did not organize the picketers, although he said a list of picket line volunteers does exist. He said he believes a volunteer from his congregation has the list now but said he did assist the picketers by telephoning some of those listed on at least one occasion.

This list includes volunteers from several churches in the area, not just his own or those of the other defendants, Culley added.

He also said the only instructions he has given to the protesters concerned keeping small children away from the picket line because it is on the edge of the highway, staying out of the clinic parking lot because it is private property, and avoiding the use of violence.

"We're not against the operation of the clinic itself," he explained. "We're just against the one procedure known as abortion that is taking place there."

Barber's testimony was similar, but he added that several of the ministers met "back when we learned that an abortion chamber might be established in Bay St. Louis."

He added, however, that he did not consider the meeting unusual because the pastors of local churches have met several times in the past on community issues.

He also said that he had met with an American Civil Liberties Union representative in May before protests began, but said that meeting was to make sure that any protests would be made within the law.

Barber also said he assisted in calling some of the picket line volunteers, but said he was not involved in a formal organization protesting the clinic's abortions.

After Barber's testimony, defense attorneys announced that they would call no witnesses, but moved for dismissal of the complaint based on what they considered a failure by the plaintiff to present a prima facie case, or sufficient evidence against the defendants.

A separate motion to dismiss the plaintiff's allegations against Hand was made by his attorney, Bobby Joe Randall of Gulfport.

The other defendants were represented by Joel Blass of Gulfport.

Blass asked the judge to dismiss the complaint against all of his clients, but specifically mentioned that the complaint against Hubbard should be dismissed.

Hubbard was not mentioned in the testimony at all and there was no evidence offered that he had been involved in the protests.

After close of the hearing, Culley told The Sea Coast Echo picketing will continue until a decision is announced.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION - Young girls, particularly those in their early teens, are among the most vulnerable groups in our society, according to Peggy E. Thomas of the Girls Clubs of America. "Growing numbers of 13 to 15 year old girls are sexually active, chemically active, and come from alienated, chaotic homes," she said. This accounts for the increasing number of runaway girls each year. How many of the estimated million runaways each year are girls?

ANSWER - More than half of the runaways each year are girls, mostly 11 to 14 years old. Ms. Thomas also pointed out that arrest rates for girls are rising twice as fast as those for boys and that substance abuse is a significant factor.

Correct answer - b.

Port and Harbor approves tariffs for Port Bienville

By DENA BISNETTE

Subject to the approval of the board of supervisors, the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission voted Monday to adopt a new tariff system for county-owned waterways in Port Bienville Industrial Park.

A date the tariff will take effect will be determined after the supervisors have approved it, but it is expected to become effective before Oct. 1, according to Port and Harbor Commission Director James DeBlanc.

The commission started work on adopting a tariff system about six months ago, DeBlanc said, because the traffic through the Port Bienville channels has increased.

Hudson Hamilton, a retired employee of the Port of Gulfport who also worked with tariffs at the Port of Baton Rouge, La., was employed to develop the Port Bienville tariff system and presented his report to the commission Monday.

"Any vessel that enters these waters will automatically be consenting to the tariff," DeBlanc explained.

The amount of the tariff will vary according to the type of commodity the vessel carries and whether it is in bulk or containerized. In the event that a vessel enters the waters and does not dock, moor or load or unload cargo, the tariff will not apply.

Under the tariff, the county will receive all wharfage charges and half the dockage charges from terminal operations in Port Bienville Industrial Park.

The only business other than shippers presently affected will be Hancock County Terminal Company, DeBlanc said. It is the only terminal in business in the area at this time.

All future terminal operations must pay an annual $500 licensing fee and an additional $50 per stevedore per year.

Businesses having materials brought in for their own use, such as manufacturers, are not considered to be operating a terminal and will not have to pay the annual license fee or tariffs.

Because the rate of the tariff varies according to commodity and because business at the terminal fluctuates, DeBlanc said he could not estimate how much money the tariff could earn for the county.

He also said all shippers and terminals will be notified of the tariff and will receive a copy of Hamilton's report before the tariff takes effect.

A copy will also be placed on file with the Federal Maritime Commission, although no approval for the tariff is needed from that agency.

he would discuss the matter further with his band staff and poll the trustees later.

Subsequent telephone conversations with the trustees, McCullough said Wednesday, indicated the majority approved the program.

Also at Monday's meeting, the trustees agreed to enroll new students from the Hancock County School District who have brothers or sisters who have been attending city schools and will continue to do so by paying tuition and furnishing their own transportation.

McCullough recommended the action, he said, following an administrators' faculty meeting in which the county school board's decision to deny a change in school district boundary lines was discussed.

"We feel we should try to keep families together," he said.

In another matter board members agreed to visit and inspect schools Aug. 23.

"If there are things the board points out that need to be corrected, there will be a full week before school opens to take care of them," McCullough said.

Following about a 30-minute executive session, the board approved employment of the following personnel:

- Andra Worsham, Bay Senior High School math teacher;
- Gary Blaize, head junior high football coach;
- Fred Weems, assistant junior high football coach;
- Paula Dixon, fourth grade, North Bay Elementary School;
- Linda Matheny, gifted program, Waveland Elementary School;
- Piccola Dietrich, Chapter I aide, Waveland Elementary School; and
- Jo Ellen Neacise, secretary, junior high.

In other business the trustees:

- Accepted resignations from Marsha D. Blackstock, first grade teacher, and Patricia Box-Pope, gifted program, both at Waveland Elementary School.

—Accepted McCullough's recommendations for employing school bus drivers for the 1984-85 school year and named W. J. Cameron as assistant transportation supervisor.

—Took under advisement bids for a copy machine, canopy repair and new canopy for Bay Junior High School, a convection oven and equipment to film home football games.

—Amended the Chapter I budget to shift $648 from the equipment costs category to purchased services category in order to pay for services from July through Oct.

Also Monday, McCullough read a letter from Dr. Ralph Brewer, executive secretary of the Commission on School Accreditation, commending the district for the quality of its 1983-84 summer school program.

Military Mention

SEAMAN ENGELHORN
Seaman Emory J. Engelhorn, son of H.E. "Buddy" Engelhorn, formerly of Bay St. Louis, and Geneva P. Engelhorn, graduated from the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif. in July.

Upon graduation from basic training, Engelhorn was welcomed home with a crawfish boil and a large gathering of friends and relatives at the home of his parents in Baton Rouge.

Seaman Engelhorn returned to San Diego, where he reported for duty on the USS Bronstein FF 1037 with the Pacific Fleet.

Seaman Engelhorn is the grandson of H.E. "Eddie" Engelhorn of Bay St. Louis.

Monday is Hancock's big day at the Fair

Monday is Hancock County Day at the Louisiana World Exposition in New Orleans.

Many Hancockians are participating in special ceremonies at the Mississippi Pavilion starting at 11 a.m.

We know many have already visited the World's Fair, and have been told they are planning on returning Monday for the big Hancock County Day.

Buses have been chartered by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, (and we understand there is a waiting list), some are using Amtrak, several organizations are using their busses and others are car pooling.

Two craftsmen and four performing groups from Hancock County are scheduled to perform during the day at the Mississippi Pavilion.

This would be a good opportunity to show our appreciation to these craftsmen and performers, in addition show the world Hancock County is in existence.

David Treutel, chamber director and World's Fair chairman has been working very hard promoting Hancock County for the big event.

Stewart Nelson, chamber director and World Exposition Hancock County Day chairman has been busy coordinating the big ceremonies scheduled for 11 a.m. Monday.

We realize there have been many Mississippi county and city designated days at the Fair, and are hoping Hancock's will be the largest for the Exposition.

So we hope to see you all at the Fair on Monday.

Matters of Health

My son has pimples on his face and I can't get him to use the vitamin A cream the dermatologist gave him. I heard there is a new vitamin A pill for acne but the dermatologist wouldn't give us a prescription.

I think you're referring to the new synthetic vitamin A derivative "Isotretinoin" (brand name "Accutane") and, believe me, your dermatologist wouldn't have been doing your son any favor if he prescribed Accutane for "pimples."

The side effects of this medicine are so dramatic that they make it undesirable for all but the very worst cases of disfiguring cystic acne.

People who take Accutane for the recommended four months experience cracking lips, sore eyes, nosebleeds, redness and itching of the skin and occasional vomiting. On the other hand, for people with really severe acne, the improvement is often so dramatic they are more than willing to suffer the side effects.

The really amazing thing about Accutane is the fact that, unlike other acne treatments, it seems to confer a long-time "cure" which persists after the medicine and its side effects are discontinued. It's great medicine but definitely not for a simple case of "pimples."

Can you tell me about "tinnitus"? Is there any treatment for this condition?

The medical dictionary defines tinnitus as "the perception of sound in the absence of an acoustic stimulus" but most people who have the condition refer to it as "ringing in my ears."

There is a whole range of causes from easily reversible problems like excess ear wax and aspirin overdose to several poorly understood and difficult to treat conditions. One of the more frequent causes for tinnitus is noise exposure, as in an industrial working environment.

This kind is often reversible when the noise is withdrawn or when ear protectors are worn.

Many people with chronic tinnitus find they get significant relief by masking the ringing with background music or the hissing noise of a television tuned to an unused channel.

In your letter you ask for a recommendation to a local specialist. I suggest you consult an "otolaryngologist" in your area. He will have the latest information on the diagnosis and treatment of this troubling disease.

What ever happened to Reye's Syndrome? For a while we heard about it all the time. Now it seems I haven't read about a case in years.

Your observation that the number of Reye's cases has decreased is absolutely correct. The number of cases reported in 1983 was the lowest since they started counting in 1976.

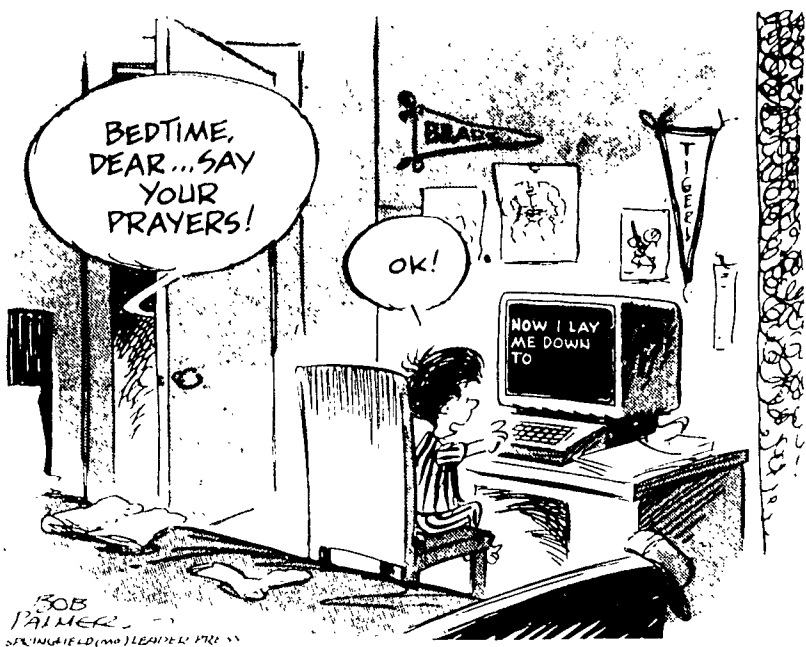

We're not sure why this has occurred but some researchers think it may be because doctors have generally switched to acetaminophen for fever control rather than aspirin.

You'll remember that we found out fairly early that a large percentage of the kids who got Reye's had been treated with aspirin when they had a severe viral infection with high fever. We're pretty much over Reye's season now. The vast majority of cases occur in the first six months of the year.

Memo from George Dale, Mississippi Insurance Commissioner.

The Mississippi Insurance Department—In Business to Serve You.

The Mississippi Insurance Department is an agency created to protect the interests of the policyholders of insurance companies operating in this state. It is a public body, not a private one, and its primary duty is to the public.

The Insurance Department is charged with the responsibility to oversee the business of the State of Mississippi and to apply to the insurance companies operating in this state the laws of the State.

The Department is also responsible for the regulation of the business of the State of Mississippi and to apply to the insurance companies operating in this state the laws of the State.

The Department is also responsible for the regulation of the business of the State of Mississippi and to apply to the insurance companies operating in this state the laws of the State.

The examination division is responsible for auditing companies that do business within the state to insure their solvency and compliance with the laws of the State. The next major function under this department is the fire marshal's office. This division is charged with the investigation of fires of a suspicious nature.

The inspection of buildings and public facilities under the newly enacted state code is also a responsibility of this division. It also inspects mobile homes, boats, and manufacturers.

Another division of the department is responsible for the inspection of liquor stores and gas dealers operating in this state.

These are but a few of the many functions of the Mississippi Insurance Department.

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

In recent weeks, I have spent a good deal of time on the road. Both before and after the session, I have been around the state of Mississippi, giving speeches and attending events such as the Neshoba County Fair.

As I have made these various trips, I receive much valuable information from you about matters affecting the future of Mississippi. But no issue is more consistently mentioned than educating our citizens.

This week I will be meeting with the Mississippi Congress of Parents and Teachers in Jackson to discuss the organization of a coalition of groups that will work together for the full implementation of the Education Reform Act of 1982. The State PTA should be commended for taking the lead in organizing such a group, and I wholeheartedly support their efforts.

Mississippi received much national attention for the far-sighted goals of the Education Reform Act. But the work was not completed when it was approved by the Legislature. As I have met with other governors, I have heard of failures in other states when backers of education reform thought their work was over with the closing of the Legislature.

With the passage of the Education Reform Act, our work just began. Today, two years later, we must find funds for this act. The state of Mississippi has been taxing our citizens for nearly two years to implement this act, but because of dire economic times in the state treasury, little money is available for implementation of the reform act.

While taxes are never easy to pay, I sincerely believe Mississippians don't mind paying for worthwhile programs like education. But we must insure that this money is being spent for the reason it was paid—in this case, for education programs second to none.

In the 1984 legislative session, I advocated creation of an education trust fund that would protect these education dollars from any other use. While we did not succeed in this session, I will again be advocating such an education trust fund in the 1985 session. And if we don't get it then, I will continue to speak out for the need to protect our education dollars. No greater investment can be made of tax dollars than in the future of our children through education.

As the implementation of the Education Reform Act continues, I will be encouraging private citizens to increase their interest in educating our children through various programs.

In the next few weeks, I will establish a special commission that will be a privately funded, on-going group of citizens who are interested in education of the total child. This group will review programs that are working in other states and recommend them to appropriate agencies in the State of Mississippi.

The commission will also involve law enforcement officers, who will help us fight crime among young people; drug enforcement officials, who will examine the drug problem in our schools; educators; clergy; and, most importantly, parents.

In addition, the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs is developing an adult literacy program. The goal of our administration is to—as nearly as possible—make every Mississippian who wants a job as well-prepared as they can be to find that job.

We must not forget that the Education Reform Act was merely a beginning. But we cannot stand still; we have only a foundation. If each administration continues building on that foundation, our state and our people will move forward educationally and economically.

As always, I remind you that my office is available to help you. If you need assistance, please contact us at P.O. Box 139, Jackson, MS 39205.

Quotables by CUEVAS

Congratulations are in order for Conrad Mauffray upon his receiving this year's American Legion Community Award from the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post 77 of Waveland.

We have worked with Conrad over the years on many community projects, especially the United Way, and feel he is very deserving of the award.

He and his family are always active in the many parades in our communities and has everyone guessing as to what type of costumes they will be wearing.

So we hope Conrad will enjoy the honors he so much deserves.

Good news for railroad crossing up-grading in Waveland was revealed last week.

The installation of automatic warning devices at Waveland and Nicholson Avenues have been needed for many years.

The devices will be installed by the Mississippi Highway Department and Waveland will be paying a portion of the installation costs.

Being a native of Waveland, we have crossed the Nicholson Avenue crossing thousands of times and have always wondered why there were not warning signals.

The City of Waveland's leaders should be commended for their efforts in seeking the signals for Waveland and Nicholson Avenues.

We feel confident that the Coleman Avenue and St. Joseph Street warning devices will be considered in the future.

Waveland is one of the fastest growing cities in our area and it is good to see the leaders looking to the future.

Both commercial and sport fishermen in the Pearl-rington area received good news last week from the Pearl River Basin Development District.

The agency approved the financing of $8,300 for a pier and launching ramp on the East Pearl.

We know there has been a lot of discussion about the need for a pier and launch in the western part of Hancock County and are happy the project seems to be underway.

A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, president of the Hancock County board of supervisors has been seeking ways to improve the needed facility in Pearl-rington.

So sport and commercial fishermen should get an improved launching facility in Pearl-rington in the near future.

We got away from work a few days last week for a publishers' meeting in Memphis.

While there we got to talk to Larry Nash, former publisher of The Sea Coast Echo.

Nash is now publisher of the Walton Tribune in Monroe, Georgia.

He asked that we tell all of his friends in Hancock County hello.

It had been several years since we had seen Larry and we were glad to get back together with him again.

ENFORCING CHILD SUPPORT

Child support enforcement is very important, and the House of Representatives last week took final action on legislation to assure that parents owning child support fulfill their obligations.

When I was practicing law in Pascagoula, I saw many instances where spouses left their children and refused to support them in the way they should.

There must be some mechanism through which we can enforce the obligation of parents to help their children when they have that ability to do so.

The Child Support Enforcement Amendments, I feel, contribute to that mechanism.

The bill, as passed by the House, provides for:

—improved child support enforcement by requiring states to implement certain procedures such as mandatory withholding and imposition of liens and security bonds for chronic delinquents.

—reduced federal matching payments to states for administrative costs.

—special project grants to promote improvement in interstate enforcement, and —collection of overdue support from federal tax refunds for families not receiving aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) benefits.

One of the most important of these provisions is the one to improve interstate enforcement of child support laws. We have to have some way of dealing with the problems when there's more than one state involved.

For instance, what happens when one of the spouses who should be responsible for a child leaves Mississippi and goes just across the state line to Alabama?

This legislation will help solve that problem by appropriating funds for special state projects designed to use innovative techniques or procedures for child support collection in interstate cases.

I supported the Child Support Enforcement Amendments, and I am glad that it passed overwhelmingly.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

Dr. Dennis Tosh is holder of the J. Ed Turner Chair of Real Estate at The University of Mississippi

By Dr. Dennis Tosh

NO TWO PARCELS ARE THE SAME

Q: I recently read an article describing real estate as being nonhomogeneous. Would you please explain what this means? C. J., Port Gibson

A: Dear C.J.:

Each piece of real estate is considered to be highly differentiated. No two parcels of land are exactly the same. If nothing else, the different location makes each parcel unique and thus non-substitutable.

Differences such as soil and subsoil conditions, zoning, availability of utilities, access, topography, market desirability and direction of prevailing winds help to differentiate each parcel of land.

This characteristic of heterogeneity requires that the real estate analyst carefully inspect each parcel of land to determine its suitability to the proposed use.

A failure to recognize the uniqueness of each parcel of land has led to many poor investments.

Real estate is also a biological concept. Increasing awareness has occurred since the passage of major federal and state environmental legislation that land use has an impact on the ecology.

Development of land changes the drainage and absorption of water. Plant and animal life are destroyed and displaced. Noise increases. Some pollution of air and water may occur.

Legal restrictions may make it necessary to limit development or change design criteria of projects.

A failure to understand the ecological link of the land to the surrounding environment may lead to restraining action by public officials and the courts, or to public outcry.

Remember, no two parcels are exactly the same!

EASEMENTS AND RIGHTS-OF-WAY

Question: My neighbor is seeking an easement across the back part of my property. What advice can you offer as to what I should include in the agreement? W. A., Okolona

Answer: Dear W. A.:

An easement as well as a right-of-way is an interest in land and thus it requires a detailed written agreement between the two parties.

It is imperative that you, as the owner, pay particular attention to the preparation of such an agreement so as to protect your interest.

You should solicit the help of legal counsel, specifically someone who understands real property law.

While your attorney will actually draw up the agreement, here are a few clauses you may want to include:

— An accurate legal description of the easement as well as a legal description of the total property;

— A clause making the acquirer liable for subsequent damages that appear after any work is completed;

— Precise location of access routes;

— Written construction timetable to minimize interference with your operations;

A clause, if appropriate, allowing you to use the easement's surface after construction is completed.

WRECKED POLICE CAR—A police car wrecked early Saturday morning at Bay Bridge will be inspected by insurance adjuster and possibly repaired at N.A. Perniciaro's Wrecker Service Yard. Officer Herbert Steube, who was driving the car, suffered a concussion in the crash with an 18-wheeler. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Policeman injured in patrol car crash

By DENA BISNETTE

Bay St. Louis Policeman Herbert Steube, 30, of 339 Menge Ave., Pass Christian, was injured Saturday when his patrol car and an 18-wheel truck collided at the Bay Bridge shortly after 3 a.m.

Steube, who suffered a slight concussion in the crash but was released from Hancock General Hospital after a 24-hour stay, said he had left Markle's Shopping center to answer another officer's call for assistance when the accident occurred.

Steube said he remembers responding to the call but does not remember much about the accident itself.

"The next thing I remember they were cutting me out of the car with the jaws of life and they told me I'd had a wreck," he said.

According to the Mississippi Highway Patrol, which is investigating the accident, the truck was driven by George William Munford of Rutherford, Va., who was not injured.

He was heading into Bay St. Louis from the bridge when the collision occurred.

Although the accident occurred in the city limits, the highway patrol was called because law enforcement agencies do not investigate their own accidents.

"It was one of our newest cars," Steube added about the wrecked car. Captain Robert Butler said the car, a used highway patrol vehicle, had been placed into service by Bay PD about three weeks ago.

Police Chief Don Williams said there is no man who would replace the lost car, and said the salvagable engine parts will probably be used to repair one of the department's older vehicle.

After plea bargaining, Jeffery Kerr was fined $50,000 and sentenced to 10 years in prison with two years suspended, while Turner was fined $25,000 and sentenced to 10 years in prison with four years suspended.

Byrne, who died last month in an auto accident in Massachusetts, was fined $50,000, given a 10-year suspended sentence and was placed on five years' probation.

Peter Kerr, who had no prior arrest record and had turned 18 only three days prior to the raid, received a non-adjudication of guilt from Judge Griffin and was placed on two years' probation.

The money seized was also included in Griffin's ruling but was not placed in the county's general fund. Instead, it has been placed in a special account where it is expected to earn about $24,000 per year in interest.

The interest, according to Griffin's ruling, can be used by the sheriff's department for capital equipment expenditures, including the purchase of automobiles. The $226,027 principal can not be spent without another court order.

Two boats and a van also found during the raid were turned over to U.S. Customs shortly after the arrests were made. The marijuana was burned April 18 at the Catahoula dump.

Pair clings for hours to capsized shrimper

By DENA BISNETTE

Two Bay St. Louis residents were stranded in the Mississippi Sound off Long Beach for about four hours Sunday when their boat capsized in rough seas.

Leroy Dahl of 302 Blue Meadow Road and his 17-year-old son Doyle Patrick Dahl were fishing with trawling equipment when the boat capsized at about 9 a.m.

"It was very unusual. The boat sank with the rear end straight down and the front floated up. The trawl hooks on the back, if it or the motor or something had stuck down in the mud, because it stayed sticking up the whole time we were out there," Leroy Dahl said.

Dahl said he is not sure how deep the water was, but said the boat measured 18 feet without the additional length added by the trawling equipment and the motor. He said the windshield of the boat was under about two feet of water and both men were holding to it to stay afloat.

"My son took it real good. I kept talking to him and wouldn't let him let go of the windshield, even when he told me his side of it was starting to come loose," he said.

Dahl said they were rescued at about noon by a shrimper who was hauling a damaged boat into Gulfport. "I don't know how he saw us. Those waves were eight feet high and I don't know how he saw us down between them," he said.

He added that the shrimp boat was from Gulfport but said he does not know who his rescuers were. Neither man was injured in the accident. The boat, except for the windshield and loose items inside it, was recovered the following day.

Mason of Kiln, an independent beauty consultant for Mary Kay Cosmetics, recently returned home from three days of intensive sales and product training in Dallas as a participant in Mary Kay's 1984 national seminar. More than 30,000 independent beauty consultants and sales directors flocked to Dallas between July 23 and Aug. 4 to attend one of four consecutive three-day meetings. Since 1984 is an election year, this year's seminar was titled "Share the Spirit."

To enable Mason, who joined Mary Kay in 1982, to share the Mary Kay success in the months ahead, specialized seminars were held each day in product knowledge, color selection, sales training, business management, goal setting and other tools for success.

Besides providing intensive training, company founder and Chairman of the Board Mary Kay Ash uses the annual meeting to personally reward and recognize the outstanding achievers of the year. During four identical

TIGHT NERVES

This materialistic age is often blamed for all our frustrated ambitions and nervous tension. When the person becomes tense and overwhelmed with anxiety, he is urged to take tranquilizers or rest from work. But it is a hard and poor remedy to follow when you are tied up inside. Authorities in our field have found that nervousness creeps up on a person from the inside, and they usually blame outside conditions for causing them to be tense and even depressed. Studies indicate that there is a physical reason for nervousness, that it can and often does result from an interrupted nerve supply. This irritates the nervous system and slows down the life currents of the body. A Chiropractic examination can detect an interruption in the nerve supply and proper care will aid in restoring normal nerve function, your peace of mind, and vigorous health again.

City-county map updated

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors reports the chamber's city and county map is presently being updated.

The chamber has contracted with Western map and Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas through their local representative Linda McDaniel to incorporate necessary changes in a new version of the map which is distributed free by the chamber.

This year's map will include a cartoon rendition of the area, along with the regular map and advertisements.

Anyone having any questions concerning the map should call the chamber office at 467-9048.

IRS offers tax course

After 30 years of modifications to reflect changes in the tax system and the changing needs of teachers and students, the "Understanding Taxes" program is "better than ever," according to the Internal Revenue Service.

"Understanding Taxes" is a free course that teaches high school students how the federal tax system works.

In 1983 nearly five million students throughout the United States and in schools for American students abroad used the materials, IRS officials say.

Free materials include a student course book, a teacher guide book and other special training and visual aids.

The course is set up in a modular format so it can be taught in its entirety or portions of it worked into math, history or economics classes, the IRS said.

Recognizing students and young adults need skills and knowledge to be responsible and informed consumers, many teachers and school systems have used the "Understanding Taxes" program to fulfill their commitment to tax awareness, the IRS added.

For many students the course has immediate practical value because they have income from part-time or summer jobs and need to file a tax return.

Not only does the course help young working adults meet their yearly responsibilities to file a tax return, it also provides insight into the rights of taxpayers and the process by which our tax laws are created, the IRS said.

For further information about the program contact the IRS at 1-800-424-1040 or write Taxpayer Education Coordinator, Internal Revenue Service, 100 W. Capitol St., Suite 504, Stop 30, Jackson 39269.

USM reports rush dates

The University of Southern Mississippi's formal rush dates have been set, with sorority rush to be held Aug. 19-24 and fraternity rush to be held Aug. 21-24.

Sorority rush registration will be Saturday, Aug. 19, in the lobby of Scott Hall from noon until 4 p.m.

In addition to the chapter parties scheduled Monday through Thursday nights, rush-week activities include a fashion show on Sunday, a movie on Thursday, and popcorn, pizza and aerobics parties throughout the week.

Sorority Chairperson Amy Firmin projects about 300 girls will seek bids from the nine participating sororities who will issue bids on Friday.

Fraternity rush registration will be Tuesday, Aug. 21 in the lobby of Bond Hall between 6 and 8:30 p.m.

Two days of chapter parties will follow with Friday being "Prep Day" in which the projected 150-200 participants will be invited to join one of the 10 fraternities participating in Rush Week.

The week will wind up with the traditional Fraternity Row Street Dance Friday night from 8 until midnight, featuring the band "Freedom."

Hancock supervisors adopt $5.5 million county budget

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Following public hearings Wednesday on the proposed assignment of revenue sharing funds and the proposed county budget, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors adopted a 1984-85 fiscal year budget of more than $5.5 million.

There were no comments or protests from the public at either hearing. Chancery Clerk E. Michael Nicaise noted the estimated revenue sharing revenues were based on last year's.

This year's figure of $408,396, he said, is the same as last year's, but actual revenues may be somewhat less because the revenues drop each year.

The assigned revenue sharing percentages include: road and bridge maintenance, 72%; $204,045; administration (includes supervisors' salaries, bookkeeper's and assistant bookkeeper's salaries), 16%; $85,343; court costs, 6%; $24,504; library, 2.5%; $10,210; and county funds, 2.5%; $10,210; and sanitary landfill, 1%, $4,084.

(Dollar figures have been rounded off.)

The budget adopted by the supervisors includes $188,000 for the Hospital, $445,041 for the Sheriff's Department, $50,900 for Civil Defense, $20,000 for Chamber of Commerce, $180,000 for Port and Harbor Commission, $60,000 for Mosquito Control, $66,090 for Hancock County Health Department, $9,755 for Homemakers, $92,743 for South Mississippi Planning and Development District and $41,470 for Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

Also, $21,300 for Hancock County

Planning Commission, $23,000 for Hancock County Extension Office, $60,000 for Mobile Medic, $20,500 for Soil Conservation, $50,175 for Park Commission, $2,000 for RSPV, $51,036 for Youth Court, $185,023 for Assessor/Tax Collector and $246,633 for Tax Assessor-Reappraisal.

And $88,000 for Coast Mental Health, $86,692 for Circuit Clerk, $24,000 for County Prosecutor, $24,000 for Public Defender, $107,422 for Justice Court, $18,230 for Veterans Service, $89,041 for Sanitary Landfill, $122,649 for Pauper Fund and $90,000 for Library.

Supervisors' funds include:
—District 1—road and bridge, $186,636; bridge construction, $46,411; and revenue sharing, $106,413, for a total of $339,460.
—District 2—road and bridge, $198,613; bridge construction, $87,470; and revenue sharing, $128,965, for a total of $415,054.

—District 3—road and bridge, $161,105; bridge construction, $43,949; and revenue sharing, $68,089, for a total of $273,143.
—District 4—road and bridge, $170,255; bridge construction, $77,745; and revenue sharing, $101,012, for a total of $349,012.

—District 5—road and bridge, $162,752; bridge construction, $53,543; and revenue sharing, $58,089, for a total of $274,384.

The road and bridge budget totals $1,651,053, the general county budget totals $3,805,262 and the revenue sharing/general county budget totals $123,000.

At the request of Gulf Regional Planning Commission officials, the GRPC budget was upped from its originally-proposed $37,700, which will necessitate a $3,770 cut elsewhere in the budget, the supervisors agreed.

District 5 Supervisor James Travira voted against adoption of the budget. "There's something wrong with the figures," he said.

"I'm not getting enough." Carryover funds resulted in the difference in supervisors' funds, the other supervisors said, and told Travira the budget can be amended if errors are found.

The supervisors reported the budget includes across-the-board raises of 25 cents per hour or about $51 per month for all county employees, plus additional raises for some six to eight employees to eliminate current salary inequities.

In other business the supervisors:

—Rejected a bid for a truck for Leet-won-Volunteer Fire Department;
—Rejected all bids for a metal building for BaySide Volunteer Fire Department and agreed to readvertise for materials for department volunteers to do their own construction work;

—Gave permission to Addie Pickering of Collins to discuss a cancer insurance program underwritten by American Heritage Life Insurance Co. with county employees; and —At Hancock County School District Superintendent Terrell Randolph's request, agreed to name the principal of Charles B. Murphy Elementary School as overseer of the Pearlinton Park and Playground.

Biloxi providing support against nuclear waste

Biloxi Mayor Gerald Blessey reports the City of Biloxi will provide office space and administrative and tactical support to the Citizens Against Nuclear Disposal and the group's coordinator Stan Flint.

"This is a concentrated effort to consolidate and direct our efforts and resources to informing the public and state and federal officials of facts regarding the proposed storage of nuclear waste in Perry County, and it is our effort to fight with our fullest ability, the location of nuclear waste repositories near the Mississippi Gulf Coast," Blessey said in his announcement.

Citizens Against Nuclear Disposal will be headquartered at the Biloxi Public Safety Center located on West Howard Avenue in Biloxi, and group coordinator Stan Flint will be operating out of the Community Relations Office. The city, according to Blessey, will provide secretarial, administrative and tactical support to Flint.

and unalterable position to nuclear waste being located in Mississippi. I pledge my full support to this group, and I pledge to do everything within my power to stop this most critical and unacceptable threat to the Mississippi Gulf Coast and its citizens. We want the President, Congress and U.S. Department of Energy officials to know that we intend to keep Mississippi from becoming the nation's nuclear dumping ground," Blessey said.

Blessey said he would like to see the federal government take a more personalized view of Mississippi, its people and its make-up.

"I think the decision makers are just looking at Mississippi as a geographic location. We want them to become cognizant of the severity of the concerns of Mississippi for the personal health of its citizens and for the detrimental affect nuclear waste being deposited in Mississippi will have on the economy of our state, which is largely dependent on the tourist trade, in South Mississippi on the fishing industry."

Flint, recently appointed by Governor Bill Allain to serve as the Fifth Congressional District Representative to the Mississippi Nuclear Waste Policy Advisory Council, said his primary duties will be to coordinate a Mississippi Nuclear Waste Rally to be held sometime in September or October on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Flint said the Biloxi Public Safety Community Relations Office will serve as the operational center, as an informational clearinghouse for the Citizens Against Nuclear Disposal and its opposition efforts.

Flint, expressing his appreciation to Blessey, said, "Gerald Blessey has been there all along. He was the first to volunteer help with the rally that was held in 1982 at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum."

Blessey moderated the forum. "I am personally deeply indebted to Mayor Blessey for all his help on this issue. He helped us form this organization and is largely responsible for its continued success," said Flint.

Sheriffs' girls ranch to hold ground-breaking

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Formal ground-breaking ceremonies for the new girls' ranch unit of the Mississippi Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranches will take place at 2 p.m. Aug. 26 at the ranch site located about three miles north of Lucedale on Beaver Dam Road.

Bill Benson, executive director of the Boys and Girls Ranches, has issued an open invitation to all interested Mississippians to attend the ceremonies.

According to Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson, the girls ranch will be the same type of facility as the boys ranch which was established in 1976 for homeless boys up to age 18.

Peterson said the boys ranch houses about 40 youngsters, including one from Hancock County.

"These children are not delinquent," Peterson noted.

Some are orphaned, some are victims of child abuse, some have been abandoned and some have been severely neglected.

The establishment of the girls ranch in George County was made possible by the donation of a 90-acre site, valued at over $200,000, by Doug Luce Sr., president of the Bank of Lucedale, and two of his brothers, J. Rancey Luce and Dwain Luce of Mobile, Ala.

"We've wanted for years to establish a facility for girls," Peterson said.

Work on the site has been under way since acquisition of the property in April.

Power lines and roads are already established and plans for construction of a water system are scheduled to begin immediately.

It is anticipated that excavation for the 36 x 146 feet slab foundation for the girls' home will be completed in time for the ground-breaking services, Benson said.

John and Glenda Turner, formerly houseparents and resident directors at the boys ranch in Lowndes County, have been appointed resident directors of the girls ranch and have moved to the Lucedale area to assume responsibility for the George County unit.

The ranch program, which serves children from all over Mississippi, is funded entirely through voluntary charitable contributions.

The majority of the cash contributions are acquired through an 'honorary membership' to the Mississippi Sheriffs' Association. Annual individual memberships are $15 and annual business memberships are $25.

In addition to cash support, gifts such as equipment, livestock, building supplies, furniture and clothing are also sought for use at the homes.

Benson said initial plans for the girls ranch call for construction of a home for 10 to 12 girls at an estimated cost of approximately $150,000.

The public is being asked to invest in development of the home by purchasing one or more square feet, at $25 each, of the 5,256 square feet in the proposed home.

Gifts of lumber, nails, tools and other building supplies are also welcome.

All gifts, whether cash or 'in kind,' are deductible for income tax purposes. Gifts should be mailed to the Mississippi Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranches, Inc. at P.O. Box 1428, Columbus 39703.

Anyone wishing to present gifts at the ground-breaking is welcome to do so, Benson said.

Scientist from Ole Miss to study thunderclouds

Any science student can explain that lightning is an electrical discharge, but no one really knows how it gets started. What turns a towering cloud into a massive generator capable of shooting sparks for miles?

Dr. Tom Marshall, assistant professor of physics at The University of Mississippi, will be studying thunderstorms in New Mexico trying to find out.

The main question, Marshall said, is how negative and positive charges develop and separate within a cloud.

"It may be that the charges come from outside the cloud," said Marshall. "But lots of evidence supports the theory that a charge separation occurs because of particle interaction."

It is generally agreed that tiny, frozen cloud particles in the upper region of a thundercloud become positively charged. Many scientists believe, although no one is certain, that precipitation particles in the bottom of the cloud are negatively charged.

Marshall explained that the cloud particles are so small they're 'stuck' to the air currents swirling within the thundercloud. Precipitation particles are one million times heavier.

In the violent updrafts and downdrafts characteristic of thunderclouds, the cloud particles come in contact with precipitation particles.

"If charge separation does occur within the cloud it occurs in updrafts, which are only found in thunderclouds," he said.

By launching helium balloons carrying homemade electric field meters into thunderstorms, Marshall hopes to get definite information about which areas of the cloud are negatively and positively charged.

A radio attached to the balloon will transmit air pressure, temperature and humidity readings back to the ground, while a third instrument measures the charge on precipitation particles. At the same time seven radars scanning the cloud will follow the balloon's course, producing a chart of the cloud's air currents.

The seven-week project, funded by the National Science Foundation, will be conducted at the Langmuir Laboratory for Atmospheric Research in New Mexico's Magdalena Mountains.

Timberline

Several people have asked us lately about what to do for lightning damage to a tree.

Unfortunately we know very little about lightning and even less about predicting the outcome of a strike on a tree. We do know that some trees survive these strikes despite real serious damage.

The factors of weather conditions, moisture content of the tree, wetness of the bark and soil, and health, species and form of the tree can possibly influence the effects of a lightning strike.

Tall, single-stem trees such as pines tend to die more frequently from lightning strikes than spreading, multi-trunk trees such as live oaks. Normally if lightning has caused lethal damage to a tree it will be apparent within a month or so.

It must, if the tree survives the initial strike, then battle the effects of massive decay caused by the large open wounds usually present after a strike, and this is where the owner can help.

The tree heals wounds by growing new wood, called callous tissue, over the exposed wood. Because healthy, fast-growing trees heal more quickly than sick or sluggishly growing trees, it is important to promote good health and growth rate through fertilization, soil aeration and watering.

Initially it may also be necessary to control a variety of insects attracted to the lightning wounds, preferably by periodic application of an approved insecticide. Lightning tends to strike the taller trees, thus many owners would rather call in an arborist or tree surgeon if the wound is high in the tree.

The application of tree wound dressing (i.e., tar) alone has been found to be of little benefit in preventing insect infection.

It is important to clean all dead bark and wood splinters from wounds. This promotes proper development of the callous tissue and makes it harder for insects to find a place to set up housekeeping.

Eventually some parts of the tree may die or become so weak as to be hazardous and thus should be removed. Even the strongest tree never fully recovers from a massive lightning strike because of the decay problem, and it may become a casualty to the strike many years afterward. But timely attention can help maximize the life of the damaged tree.

Lightning rods are placed in some high value feature or historic trees, but this is a rather expensive preventive procedure for the average residential tree. However, if installed properly, rods can prevent lightning damage.

A similar study was conducted earlier this year at the National Severe Storms Laboratory in Norman, Okla. by Marshall and Dr. Roy Arnold, professor of physics at Ole Miss. Before that, Marshall said, no one knew anything about the electric field inside a severe storm because no measurements had been made inside one.

That may be because the light-weight electric field meters Marshall builds have a better chance of getting to the top of thunderclouds, which can reach ten miles in height. Meters used previously weighed as much as 40 pounds and cost $1,000 or more.

About two-thirds of the instruments launched into thunderstorms are destroyed by lightning or lost. By building his own meters for $200, Marshall can better afford losing them.

The destructive as well as beneficial rain-giving properties of thunderstorms are obvious reasons for studying them.

But Marshall points out that all applications of research findings can't be foreseen. For example, when Michael Faraday invented the electric generator in the early 1800s, he was asked what use his invention had. In reply Faraday asked, "What use is a newborn baby?"

Today nearly all electric current is generated by Faraday's 'useless' invention.

In the same way, Marshall's work could eventually lead to a reduction in the destructive capabilities of thunderstorms while enhancing their positive aspects.

Bay camp attracts 35 participants

The first annual Bay St. Louis Football Camp held last week at St. Stanislaus field attracted 35 participants, according to camp organizer J.E. Lolacano.

Participants practiced basic football skills and competed in punting, passing, kicking, and other events.

Winners in 13-14 age division included Rocky Rhodes, sit-ups, pass, punt, kick, 40-yard run and 100-yard run; and Scott Heitzmann, push-ups.

Brandon Smith won the 11-12 age division pass, punt and kick competitions, while Brian Brooks won in sit-ups, 40-yard run and 100-yard run. Trey Kidd won the push-up competition.

In the 9-10 age division, Jason Lolacano won in sit-ups, push-ups, punt and kick; John Rutherford won the pass competition; and Mike Lee won the 40-yard run and 100-yard run.

Rocky Rhodes was voted the most outstanding camper.

Competition winners received trophies and medals.

Volunteer coaches for the one-week camp included J.E. Lolacano, Dale Lolacano, Mike Gaudin, Scott Thomas and Casey Whitman. The proceeds from the camp will benefit the Bay Catholic Elementary School Booster Club, Lolacano said.

ZIGZAG—Practicing a zigzag running style designed to elude defensive players are John Switzer, 10; Jon Compretta, 10; and Linn Montjoy, 11. The three boys learned the technique last week at the first annual Bay St. Louis football camp.

SIDEWAYS RUNNING—Ten-year-olds Ben McCollister, Regan Kane and Dwayne Raphael and nine-year-old Dylan Hauge practice running techniques at the first annual Bay St.

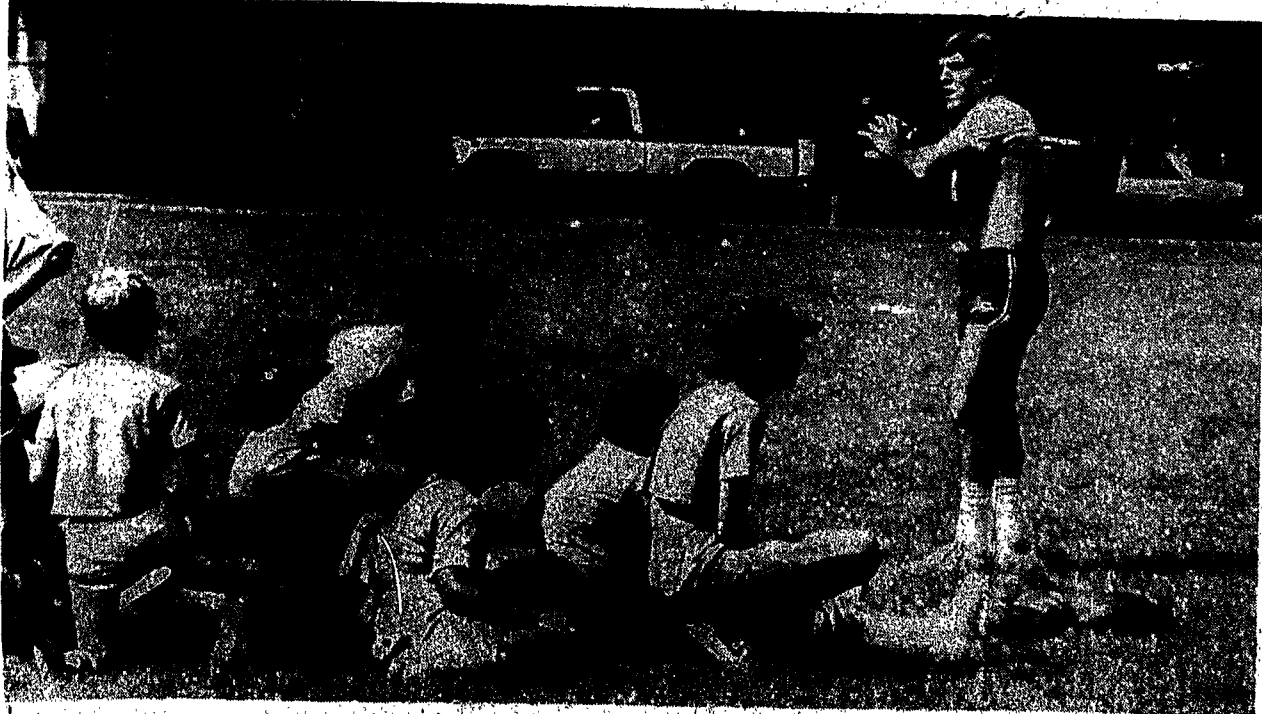

Louis football camp. In this drill, they are learning how to run sideways.

RUNNING THE ROPES—Participants in the first annual Bay St. Louis Football Camp run through a net of ropes to develop speed and agility. The ropes were one of several running drills used to improve the basic football skills of the campers.

PASSING DEMONSTRATION—J.E. Lolacano demonstrates the finer points of passing to participants in the first annual Bay St. Louis Football Camp Friday. Lolacano organized the camp to provide boys ages 9-15 with basic football skills and to raise money for the Bay Catholic Elementary Booster Club.

Bay High to field experienced team

By DENA BISNETTE

An experienced football team will take the field for Bay High School in its first game Sept. 7, according to Head Coach Cleveland Williams.

"This is a pretty experienced group. Last year Bay High had a lot of sophomores who were starters," said Williams, who has moved up from Bay Junior High for his first season as head coach at the high school.

The coach said he expects to have seven offensive starters and six defensive starters from last year's team.

However, the team lost some linemen on both offense and defense through graduation, including two tackles and a free safety. Williams said he believes he has players who can fill the remaining positions, but still feels the team could use more depth on the line.

He added that some of Bay High's 10th graders are expected to make the starting line-up, helping to build the team for future seasons as well as 1984.

"We have a real good feeder program from the junior high, and the junior high players will be working out with us until school starts. It will be good for them, because they'll learn," the coach said.

He also said graduation took most of last year's larger linemen, giving him a smaller team this year that has an average player weight of about 195 pounds.

"We're not going to be as large as last year, but we're going to be quicker," he said.

That quickness may become a factor in Bay High's first game, which is against Stone County and is the first of six conference games on the Bay schedule.

"This will be a tough one," said Williams. "Stone County will be big and strong, but I'm hoping our quickness will overcome that."

"We also have a good balanced ball club. We have a good running attack as well as a good passing attack."

"Our players play real good team ball. That's one thing I think we have going real good for us right now. It will help in all 10 of our games."

Although those 10 games will be against teams that Bay High has been playing for the last four or five seasons, Williams is looking toward a tough season.

"Our conference this year is well-balanced. It's going to be tough because it's all pretty even competition."

Practice started at Bay High Tuesday and the coach said he is expecting to have about 40 players for the season.

TV sportscaster to fill new PR post at Southern

Long-time Sports Director for WDAM-TV in Hattiesburg, Ragiel Napier, will be joining the staff of USM Public Relations, according to W. E. Kirkpatrick, director of public relations.

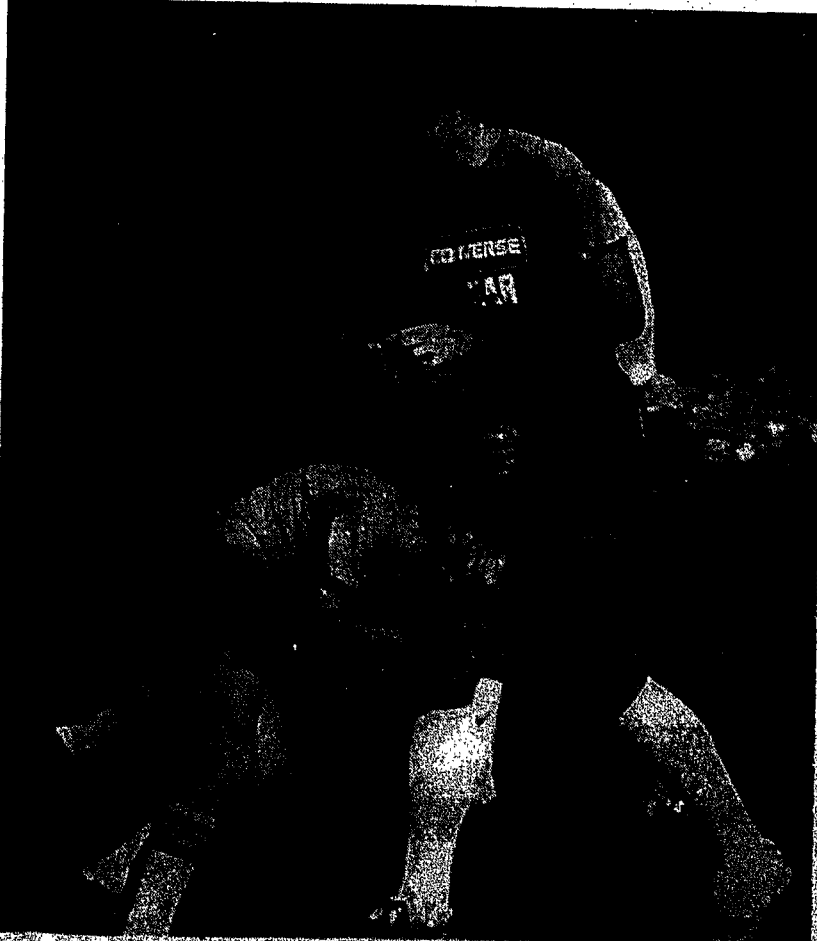

Napier will fill a new position, assistant director of public relations for sports.

According to Kirkpatrick, Napier will be responsible for all sports radio/television production, promotion, sports information, and other sports components of USM Public Relations.

The USM sports staff will consist of Napier; Ace Cleveland, sports information director; John Cox, assistant sports information director; and Shirley Jones, sports information assistant for women's sports.

"I am happy to have Ragiel join our staff. His broad based knowledge of the media, radio and television, as well as other areas related to sports, will be an asset. He will be joining a very hard working and dedicated staff and this combination will enhance our total effort significantly," Kirkpatrick said.

Of his new position, Napier said: "Certainly, I leave the television station, WDAM, with some apprehension. But I am looking forward to the new job with great anticipation."

BLOCK AND TACKLE—Nine-year-old Dylan Hauge practice blocking and tackling a dummy held by Scott Thomas at the first annual Bay St. Louis Football Camp. Hauge was one of about 35 youngsters at the camp, which was held last week at St. Stanislaus practice field and was coached by a group of volunteers that included Thomas.

Divers journey to Florida to earn open water certificates

Twelve novice scuba divers from Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian recently completed a three-week instruction program with an open water dive at Panama City, Fla.

The Scuba Schools International course conducted locally by Scott Thomas of Bay St. Louis was culminated with a three-day trip which included dives at Vortex Springs north of Panama City and open water dives at stone jetties off St. Andrew's State Park in the Gulf of Mexico.

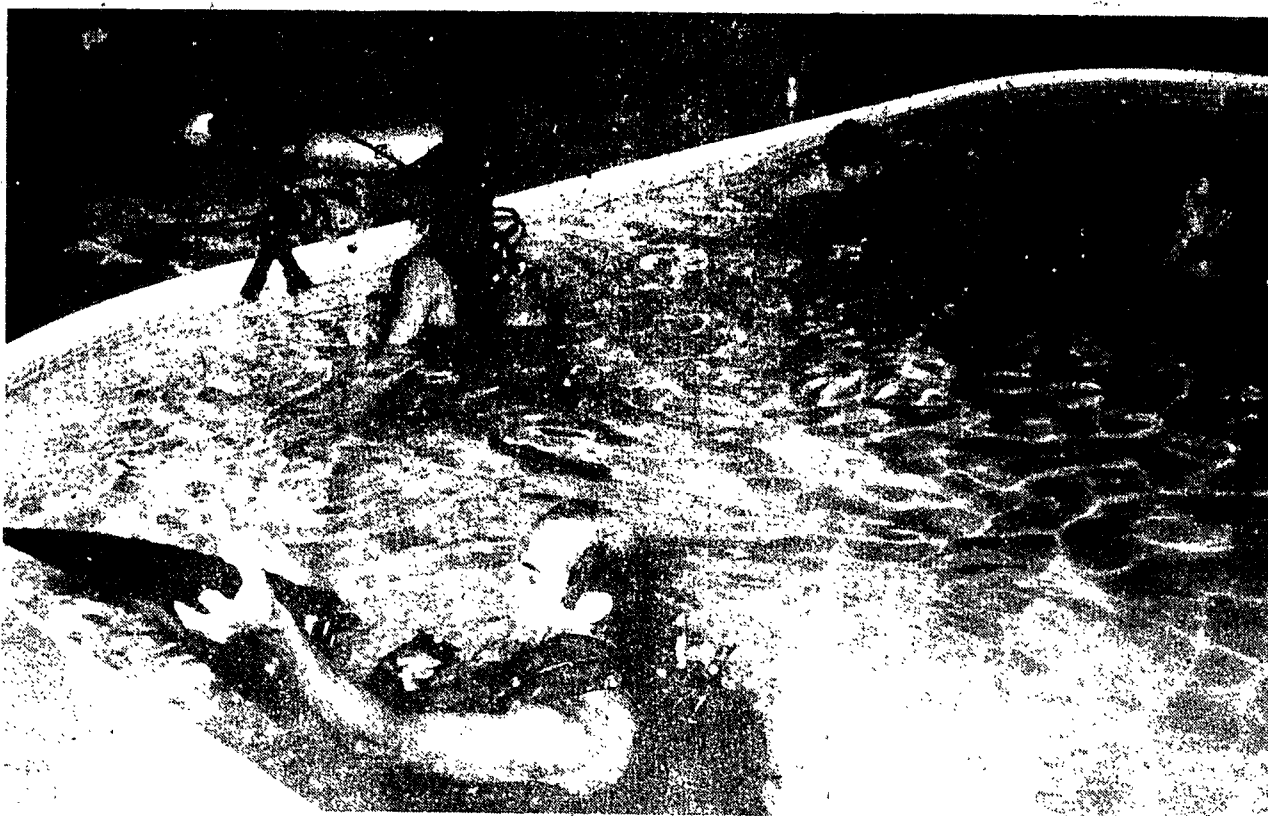

Thomas said pre-dive instruction included six classroom hours and six hours in a swimming pool.

Included in the three-day Florida excursion were three dives at Vortex Springs, Friday, Aug. 3; three dives at the St. Andrew's jetties Saturday, Aug. 4; a night dive from the vessel Dutchess under auspices of the Hydro-Space Dive Shop in Panama City Saturday; and two dives at the jetties Sunday, Aug. 5.

The group assembled at 5 a.m. Friday at I-10 and Hwy. 49 to form a caravan to Vortex Springs, and returned to Mississippi Sunday evening.

In addition to Thomas, those making the trip included John Logan, Debra Bryer and Jamie McKeough, all of Pass Christian; Jon Cabaniss, Penny and Tony Vincent, Ellen Eagan, Judd Crane, Randy Lee, John Miller, Larry Keith, Dick Thomas and Joe Cabaniss, all of Bay St. Louis.

The program participants were awarded open water diving certification from SSI following completion of the Sunday dives, Scott Thomas said.

A final summer SSI instruction series is scheduled to open with an organizational meeting Monday at the Hancock Chamber of Commerce office on US-90 in Bay St. Louis.

Anyone interested in the diving instruction should call Thomas at 467-7706 prior to the organizational meeting.

N.O. educational television slates September art auction

WYES-TV/12, public television in New Orleans, La., will present 'Art Collection Twelve,' the station's third annual televised art auction, Sept. 20 through 24. Professional auctioneers will lead the bidding.

Buyers can bid by phone from their homes or join the in-studio bidding audience at WYES, located near City Park at 916 Navarre Avenue in New Orleans. The entire art auction will be broadcast live on WYES, Ch. 12.

An estimated 600 original works of art will be up for bid, including paintings, sculptures, photographs, ethnic artworks, glasswork, pottery and lithographs. Works by Salvador Dali, James Whistler and Joan Miro are among those by internationally-known artists that will be available.

In addition, the auction will offer an extensive selection of works by local talent.

A preview exhibition of all artworks will be on display at WYES on Monday, Sept. 10 from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m.

The preview exhibition is free and open to the public.

Sealed bids may be placed at the preview, and copies of a 56-page catalogue highlighting more than 450 of the artworks will be available.

All works of art for sale are donated. Proceeds from the art auction benefit WYES.

Co-chairs for his year's event are Ann Bell and Barbara Jacobs.

For more information call the auction office at WYES, 486-5611.

ETV Brief

PLACIDO RERUN
When "Great Performances" first presented "Placido Domingo Celebrates Seville" last December, the Philadelphia Daily News, with its tongue in cheek, reported, "Domingo enthusiasts who miss this show might be tempted to slit their throats."

Such a drastic measure, facetiousness and all, won't be necessary, because the program will air again for the benefit of such passionate viewers as well as the general public at 9 p.m. Monday, Aug. 20, On Mississippi ETV.

Domingo pays tribute to the city of Seville, Spain—inspiration for many of the world's greatest composers—on the special "Great Performances" program.

The world-renowned tenor is heard as Don Jose in Bizet's "Carmen"; as Don Alvaro in Verdi's "La Forza del Destino"; and in various other favorite roles.

ARBAN GIVES INSTRUCTIONS—J.C. Arban welcomes 78 players to first day workouts Friday and sends his '84 edition of the Wildcats through morning and afternoon workouts. Monday the 'Cats were in full gear as Arban and his staff continued conditioning drills, while shuffling players into position. The Wildcats' first game is at home against Holmes, Saturday, Sept. 1. The two-a-day workouts will continue through this week.

Wildcat practice opener brings out 61 freshmen

Pearl River College head football coach J.C. Arban is having as much trouble remembering names as his players are learning the plays in the early going of the Wildcats' fall workouts.

When practice began last Friday, 78 players showed up for the two-a-day workouts. Of that number only 17 were sophomores. The rest are new faces, either freshmen or walk-ons.

"We've spent most of our time getting in shape and running plays," Arban said. "There's no doubt we'll have to go into overtime to get the players comfortable with our offense and defense."

Of course, some names have already stuck with Arban and his assistants

Herbert Morris and Leon Akins.

At the tailback position, Marvin Houston of Poplarville and Lorenzo Rayford of Varnado, La., look impressive.

Houston is fast, shifty and is taking up just where he left off with the Hornets. Rayford is also very quick, even at 195 pounds.

Other names Arban is having no problem remembering include tight-end Doug Rippel of Slidell; offensive tackle Jim Roseberry of Hattiesburg and defensive back Mike Clemons of Theodore, Ala.

Arban's eyes really sparkled when he mentioned defensive tackle Charles Swain (6'3-235) from Leeds, Ala. Swain was courted by the University of Auburn and Ole Miss, however, he wound up at Pearl River.

"There's a good spirit, good attitude, and good cooperation here in the early going," Arban said. "I think this will make up a lot for the inexperience."

Sophomore quarterback Chip Lotton is looking good at that spot; however, his three freshmen backups need a lot of fundamental work. Linemen and receivers look good one minute and bad the next.

As expected, the defense is showing up the best. "We have some boys who want to hit," Arban said. "That's really obvious."

Two-a-day workouts will continue through registration next week.

Golden Eagles welcome 32 lettermen to the nest

Sunday's arrival of first-year candidates for the University of Southern Mississippi's football team signaled the beginning of the countdown to the 1984 Golden Eagle season.

First-year players reported Sunday afternoon and began practice Monday. These players got in three days of work before some 90-plus veterans arrived Wednesday.

The veterans include 32 lettermen off the 1983 team that posted a 7-4-0 record. Missing will be 16 seniors, 13 of whom have gone on to play in the United States Football League (USFL), or to the National Football League (NFL) as draftees or free agents.

Two-a-day workouts for all players will begin Friday, and the Eagles will put on pads for the first time three days later (as permitted by NCAA regulations).

Thursday is a non-practice day with "Media Day" activities to get underway at 10 a.m. in Roberts Stadium and the annual "Meet the Eagles" barbecue sponsored by the Forrest County Chapter of the USM Alumni Association, is set for 7 p.m. in Red Green Coliseum.

USM assistant coach to head Co-Lin eagers

After eight years at the University of Southern Mississippi, assistant basketball coach Mike Jones has resigned to accept the head coaching position at Copiah-Lincoln Junior College.

Jones, who will assume his new duties immediately, joined the Eagle coaching staff in 1976-77 after a very successful playing career at Mississippi College and Co-Lin.

"It was probably the hardest decision I have ever had to make in my life," Jones said. "USM has been very good to me and my family. The job at Co-Lin is a good move for me professionally, because I need the valuable head coaching experience. My association with USM is one I'll cherish the rest of my life."

Jones spent two seasons playing for current USM coach M.K. Turk at Co-Lin and spent all eight of his seasons as an assistant at USM under Turk.

"Mike has been an outstanding assistant coach and has made substantial contributions to Golden Eagle basketball. He is an excellent coach with a bright future. We wish him the best of luck in his new job."

Turk indicated he hopes to fill the vacancy created by Jones' departure in the near future.

Ole Miss professor eyeing ultrasound effects

Over 60 percent of the babies now born in America have been examined by ultrasound before birth. In countries with socialized medicine, the procedure is routine for all pregnant women.

Dr. Lawrence Crum, professor of physics at The University of Mississippi, is conducting experiments on the biological effects of diagnostic ultrasound, a technique that has been used since the 1960s with the assumption that it is completely safe.

He is careful to point out that there is no evidence of harm from ultrasound scans but, "No one has made a long-term case study of the effects of ultrasound. It took longer than 20 years to determine that radiation caused cancer."

Early this year, a panel of experts convened by the National Institute of Health concluded that no harm to humans has been clearly demonstrated and that the risks associated with ultrasound were "hypothetical." But, without proof that the technology is completely safe, the panel also recommended that ultrasound scans be performed only when benefits outweigh the risks. And, in many instances, they do.

For specialists in a new branch of medicine called fetal therapy, ultrasound scans are invaluable diagnostic tools. The scanning device bounces high-frequency sound waves off the fetus.

Echoes produced by the waves are projected as an image on a television screen. In this way, doctors are able to examine the unborn 10 weeks after conception and to correct some defects that might otherwise be fatal.

Among these correctable defects are: tumors, obstructions of the urinary tract, hydrocephalus (accumulation of fluid on the brain) and hernias. Ultrasound has also reduced the risks of amniocentesis by allowing doctors to avoid puncturing the placenta or jabbing the fetus as they withdraw fluid from the mother's womb.

Concerns about the safety of ultrasound stems from the effects of high-frequency sound waves on liquids. "When an ultrasound device is turned on, the liquid in the body is put under stress," Dr. Crum explained.

"It is compressed, then stretched two to five million times per second. If you have a bubble in the liquid, the stress causes a crack. The liquid breaks apart and then reforms, releasing enormous amounts of pressure and heat."

Obvious questions arise. First, is there free gas in the body which can form bubbles when stressed by ultrasound? Do ultrasound scanning instruments cause the formation of bubbles in liquids? And third, to these instruments damage tissue by bubbles forming, then collapsing?

Liquids are generally homogenous, or consistent, especially in the body where fluids are filtered through lungs, kidneys and other organs.

The filtering process removes most impurities like undissolved gases that can provide a nucleus from which bubbles form. A condition known as the "bends" is evidence that bubbles do form in the body, Dr. Crum said.

When deep sea divers surface too quickly, potentially fatal nitrogen bubbles develop in their blood.

Damage related to the formation and collapse of bubbles caused by sound waves is well known.

"That's why the Lusitania had to be refitted after one week," Dr. Crum said. The ship's propellers created a fluctuating pressure field. When the resulting bubbles collapsed, the force of the liquid shooting through them was great enough to damage the metal of the propellers.

"It's very much like the impact of a speeding bullet," he said. "The force that's exerted can equal 40,000 atmospheres."

The greatest atmospheric pressure humans are normally exposed to is one atmosphere, the pressure at sea level.

Dr. Crum's current research on this topic is funded by the Bureau of Radiological Health and the National Science Foundation. At this stage he is trying to determine whether ultrasound scanning devices cause bubble formation, called cavitation, to occur in water.

Based on proof of cavitation in water, Dr. Crum plans to investigate the effects of ultrasound waves on living tissue. "We already know the effects of ultrasonic radiation on fruit flies," he said. "If the flies are irradiated as adults, no damage. If they're irradiated as eggs, no damage. If they're irradiated as larva all of them are killed because only at that stage do they have bubbles in their bodies."

Nursing assistant night class offered in Gulfport

Nurse assistant classes will begin Aug. 29 at Central Junior High School in Gulfport.

Classes will meet four hours each night, one night a week for 15 weeks. To register, call 888-1172 or 865-4668, or come by the Community Education office of the Gulfport Municipal Separate School District at 1619 20th Avenue between Aug. 1-22. Enrollment is limited.

The nurse assistant's class provides information which enables a student to decide whether he/she would like to continue in the nursing field.

It is the first step on the ladder of nursing education.

The class teaches interpersonal relationships in patient care, understanding the anatomy of the body, and the important vital signs (temperature, pulse, respiration, and blood pressure). Students will learn to properly make an occupied or unoccupied bed, and will be taught to give bed baths and provide other personal care.

Emphasis will be placed on good posture and proper body mechanics.

The importance of nursing procedures is discussed. Procedures are demonstrated each week and must be practiced until proficiency is attained.

Nursing skills can always be useful in helping your own family, but besides this, there are various opportunities of employment for nurse assistants.

General information is discussed concerning hospital nursing, home health nursing, private duty as a sitter either in an agency or in a home, working in a nursing home, or continuing education to be licensed as a practical nurse or a registered nurse.

This class teaches that nursing is caring about people and learning how to work with and for people.

Your Stars Above

BY EVE EWING

ARIES (3-21/4-19) A pending business deal should go down quite well in the near future. Romance looms on your horizon, but don't move too fast or you could jeopardize your happiness.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20) Resist the temptation to say "I told you so" to a loved one who is down on luck. Your own good fortune is rebuke enough and it should be shared if you really care about the relationship.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20) You are about to make a major decision about your future, and for once, you have examined all sides carefully. Stick to your guns and move right ahead. All will be well.

CANCER (6-21/7-22) You tend to be over-cautious where the heart is concerned, and risk losing something valuable. Walk a fine line between caution and rashness, and know when to move fearfully.

LEO (7-23/8-22) Someone you thought lost to you returns after an absence of many years. Build a new friendship on the future, not the past, and all will be well.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22) Pull in your financial horns, or you could encounter rocky times ahead. Seek advice from experts on how best to do this, and do not delay too long.

LIBRA (9-23/10-22) Don't mistake stubbornness for firmness. A close friendship is in peril, and you should be willing to concede that it is possible for you to make a mistake.

SCORPIO (10-23/11-21) A dear one loves you very much but your suspicious nature is putting a strain on the relationship. Accept the love offered without conditions and you will gain much joy.

SAGITTARIUS (11-22/12-21) Your ability to make money is only exceeded by your ability to spend it. Try to bring these traits in balance for happiest results. It isn't necessary to be a miser, just careful.

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19) It may be time to make your stand in the political wars. Although a win isn't on the cards right away, action now will lead to success a couple of years down the road.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-18) Your ideas are always first-rate, but you need to work as hard at putting them across as you do dreaming them up. Don't leave the nitty-gritty to others.

PISCES (2-19/3-20) Your job prospects have never looked better, thanks to a lot of hard work. Don't lose heart now, but strike while the signs are with you.

Caring For Children

BY ANDREA PAUL

EASING INTO THE SCHOOL ROUTINE

You've been rushing around for weeks getting ready for school. The new clothes and shoes are bought. You hope you held enough funds in reserve for those surprise extras — like the football uniform for the child who never before expressed an interest in sports. You are weary from a long summer with children under foot, and ready for the first day of school. Off with the children. At last you can work on a project of your own.

Well, almost. The first day of school is exciting no matter if it is an old school, or a new school, the first day ever, or just another first day. So Mom, start your new project, but put it away at least thirty minutes before your children come home. Use that thirty minutes to relax and collect yourself, so you can devote your full attention unbegrudgingly when they arrive home, eager to share their day's events with you. Don't get your feelings hurt if they don't want to tell you everything about their first day, but just run off to play with their friends. Just be prepared to listen if they do need you.

Little gestures, like being interested in your child's day, let him know you feel school is important. And it gives him the message in a much more pleasant and encouraging way.

If you work, it is particularly hard to come home feeling tired, wanting to unwind, and knowing supper must be fixed and that the children will all be clamoring for your attention. So give yourself a break and make them feel going back to school is special. Stop for chicken dinners on the way home. Serve them by candlelight — corny, but it makes the occasion an "event."

If you have an intense need to unwind before being pounced upon by eager children, stop a block from home and sit in your car for a moment to clear your head. This trick won't work if you use the time to worry about work. Take along a book of poetry or some humorous essays so you can read something light to get your mind on pleasant thoughts.

Equine Inns to hold its first Gymkhana

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Equine Inns, Inc. will sponsor its first 'Gymkhana' Saturday, Aug. 18, beginning at 9 a.m.

Barbara O'Meallie said the primary purpose of the Gymkhana—an organized series of games—is "to break the high tension of competitions."

"We want to get people playing with their horses and having fun with them and with each other," she said.

Most of the events are intended to be conducted on horseback.

"But technically," O'Meallie said, "anyone can run the races without a horse."

"And if they run as fast as a horse," she commented, "they could even win!"

There are 32 activities or 'classes' scheduled.

O'Meallie said a hard hat with fixed chin strap is mandatory for all events, and that motorcycle helmets are acceptable.

Shoes must be of a tie-on variety or boots. No barefooted riders will be allowed.

The horseback events include such activities as apple ducking, balloon gathering, bending races, bun races, egg-and-spoon races, litter races, tire races, musical mounting, potato races, shirt races, water-carrying races, needle-and-thread races and sack races.

The games will be divided into groups: small ponies (under 13 hands), large ponies (13 to 14-2 hands) and horses (over 14-2 hands).

Entry fees for small ponies is $2 per class, for large ponies $3 per class and for horses $4 per class.

First place winners will receive four points and a return of the entry fee for that class.

Second place winners will receive two points and third place winners one point.

A cash award will be made to the high point winner in each division.

At 9 a.m. a special event for pairs only, including road and track races, a five-mile canoe race and horseshoes, will be held.

Entry fee for that event is $15.

Horseshoe pitchers may also participate in a 25-point game at 1 p.m., for which the entry fee is $2 per individual. O'Meallie said saddles and bridles, whether of English or Western variety, must be in good condition and safe for horse and rider.

A negative Coggins Test, dated within the past six months, must be shown before horses are allowed on the show grounds.

A parent or guardian must sign an entry form for all participants who are minors.

For further information about the Gymkhana, call O'Meallie at 255-7573.

Good eating habits developed in childhood may prevent cancer

"Because food preferences and dietary patterns developed in childhood stay with us throughout life, young people need to acquire healthy dietary habits that may help them reduce the risk of developing cancer," Dr. T. Collin Campbell recently told a conference of the American School Food Service Association in Indianapolis.

"Certain nutrients have been shown to promote tumor growth and others to inhibit it, but young people are unlikely to eat food just because it's good for them," said Campbell, a cancer researcher and professor of Nutritional Biochemistry at Cornell University.

"The biology of nutrient metabolism and cancer growth is exceedingly complex," Campbell continued. "Several scientific groups have now concluded, based on the evidence available, that dietary guidelines to lower cancer risk are warranted," he added.

Campbell, who served on the National Academy of Sciences committee responsible for the landmark report, "Diet, Nutrition and Cancer," believes the most important dietary recommendations are to reduce the intake of dietary fat to 30 percent of total calories and increase the consumption of fruits, vegetables and grain/cereal products.

Campbell told the conference of the 60,000-member association of nutritionists, dietitians, educators and others working in our nation's schools that fats comprise 40 percent of the calories consumed by most Americans.

"The taste for fat is acquired, beginning in childhood. Using the food exchange system and menu plan just developed by the American Institute for Cancer Research, it is possible to decrease fat consumption even below the recommended 30 percent level without compromising intake of essential nutrients and still enjoy great food variety," according to Campbell, who is also senior science advisor of the American Institute for Cancer research.

Campbell says, "If dietary guidelines are to be effective, creative meal plans will help both youngsters and adults learn to like foods that can maintain their health."

The AICR was the first organization to issue dietary guidelines as a result of the National Academy of Science report.

AICR is a nonprofit organization formed in 1981 to promote research and education on the relationship between diet, nutrition and cancer.
